Gorgeous Supper-Room Decorations at the Metropolitan Annex.

As the time for the opening of the Centennial celebration draws near, the Committee on Plan and Scope find it necessary to hold a daily aftermoon session in order to perfect the arrangements, provide for every detail in the ceremonice, and see that nothing occurs to mar the harmony of the grand occasion. Secretary Clarence Bowen knows more than any one else about the original Washingtonian ceremonies, and he has, therefore, been appointed a committee of one to post President Hamilton Fish as to how he ought to behave when he goes down to receive President Harrison at the Wall Street ferry, and also give him a few points relative to his duties at the recention in the Equitable Building.

A number of young gentlemen have also been appointed to represent the escort which attended

Rev. Dr. R. S. Storrs, Archbishop Corrigan and Dr. Chaunesy M. Perew, who will conduct the lit-enery services at the Sub-Treasury Building.

SOME CRUBCH DECORATIONS.

The decorations at St. Pani's Church, Trinity Church and the Sub-Treasury will be an important feature of the celebration. Preparations are being made to have them most elaborate and beautiful.

There is no doubt that Mayor Grant's proc-lamation to the citizens of New York urging them to adorn and brighten their houses for the occasion, will meet with a prompt and universal PLAG AND BUNTING MEN THRIVING. Dealers in flags, bunting and other decorative material are doing a rushing business, and in all the dry-goods stores long counters filled with ribbons combining the National colors, red white and blue, are surrounded all the day with crowds of purchasers, for the ladies evidently do not intend to get left when it comes to a question of patriotic adornment.

GEN. BUTTERPIELD'S ONEROUS DUTIES. GEN. BUTTERITELD'S ONEROUS DUTTER.

Gen. Butterfield, the Grand Marshal of the civic parade, is almost overwhelmed with his duties, and the industrial demonstration has so completely outgrown all pravious calculations that he now finds himself obliged to cut down the representation of the various organizations which wish to take part in the parade in order to get them all in line.

ALL APPLICANTS CANNOT PARADE. Applications already in call for 100,000 men esides the three score and more of floats which ave been allotted a place in the line. It is estimated that the line would be more It is estimated that the line would be more than seventeen miles long under those conditions. The marshal is placed in a decidedly unpleasant pocition in making the reductions, but it is absolutely necessary, because it would be manifestly impossible to handle such an immense multitude of men in line, and enable the column to pass a given point by daylight.

Gen. Butterfield has issued a number of orders regarding the relative positions of the various organizations in the parade, the distance between the ranks, and regulations for the comfort of the paraders. He has also asked for the co-operation of the police department in carrying out his plans for making the demonstration a successful one.

SOME TRUCKS MAY HAVE TO GIVE WAY. Gen. Butterfield will also ask Supt, Murray to have all trucks taken from the streets which eroes Fifth avenue from Fifty-uinth street to Twenty-third street, on the day of the eight parade. Wednesday, May 1. These streets will be needed that the societies which are to take part in the parade may form in them.

It is probable also that the police will be requested to clear the cross-streets from the Battery to Grand street of trucks or any obstructions that the companies who are to figure in military parade may form in them. If the line of formation should require these streets the ermits for truckmen will not be of use on that day.

ACTIVITY IN THE METROPOLITAN OPERA-HOUSE. The Metropolitan Opera-House is just now the scene of the most buey activity in town. It is the intention of Ball Manager Stanton to make it the most richly decorated interior ever seen in this country, and an army of workmen are busy day and night. Every part of the vast auditorium will be hung with brilliantly colored with seniorium will be hung with brilliantly colored fections and streamers, interspersed with medallion portraits, shields, gonfalons and cross standards of colors, with wreaths of greens and lavish draperies of flowers.

The boxes to be occupied by the President and other official gnests will be distinguished with decorations still more elaborate.

GORGEOUS SUPPER ROOM DECORATIONS. The walls of the annex which will be used for the supper-room will be wainscoted with ma-hogany and hung with wine-colored silk plush, divided into panels, in the centre of each of which will be placed an illuminated coat of arms of one of the States of the Union.

THE NAVAL DIFFICULTY ADJUSTED.

The difficulty between the Navy Committee and Admiral Porter has been adjusted, and everything is said to be working harmoniously again.

again.

The arrangements for the naval parade have now been nearly completed, and captains of the different classes of vessels which are going to be in line know just what to do. Every vessel which participates must be in line on April 29 at 11.30. 11.30 A. M. sharp WAITERS EXPECTING A HABVEST.

The waiters in the hotels and large restaurants are beginning to make preparations for the big celebration. They look at it entirely from a professional point of view, and have decided that their services are worth $5 a day during the Centennial, and propose to demand the increase. Some of them think they ought to get $10 a day.

Startling Confession of a Plot to Obtain Money.

Carlstand Tnans Informer on Lawyer Carlin and the Duboises.

He Says the Scheme Was to Blackmall Brooklyn Rallroad Companies.

Charles Carlstand, implicated with Henry C. Dubois, his wife, Sarah F. Dubois, and Lawyer Arthur P. Carlin, all of whom are under arrest on a charge of conspiracy, has made a sworn statement, in which he confesses that he perjured himself, and alleges that Carlin and the Dubois were mixed up in a scheme for blackmailing street railroad companies.

The confession was made in Judge Walsh's Court in Brooklyn to-day.

bring a false and fraudulent action against the Brooklyn Cross-town Railroad Company for pretended injuries received by the woman.

Mrs. Dubois was to fall, said Carlstand, and Dubois and he were to stand by as witnesses. Carlin was to be the attorney in the case and the proceeds were to be equally divided.

On July 28 Mrs. Dubois bearded a car at the corner of Washington and Park avenues, and role to the corner of Park avenue and Concord street, where, as previously arranged, she fell, and pretended that she had been thrown through the carelessness of the Company's servant. Carlstand had boarded the car a few minutes Carlstand had bearded the car a few minutes before as a witness, and although they were well acquainted they pretended to be strangers. Mrs. Dubois was assisted to the sidewald and was sent home in a coach. He (Carlstand) gave his name to the driver.

He then went back to the Dubois residence and they talked over the success of the scheme. Carlstand further states that around midnight the same day he went to Carlin's house and told him of the success of the scheme. Carlin said it was a first-class case. Suit for $10,000 was brought in the Supreme Court, and after a trial before Justice Cullen the plaintiff was awarded $225.

Dubois and his wife pleaded not guilty and Dubois and his wife pleaded not guilty and waived examination.

They both declined to make any statement and Justice Waish fixed ball at $1,000.

This is Dubois's second appearance in a police court. The former occasion was when he was charged by Deacon Richardson, with consuiring with certain conductors to defraud the Company by exchanging transfer tickets for cash. He was the transfer agent at the Long Island Depot, and was a conspicuous figure for many years.

Depot, and was a conspicuous figure for many years.

Dubois told a remarkable story at the time, implicating the railroad people in a conspiracy to kidnap witnesses in a law suit, which had been brought against them for injuries received on one of their roads. The evidence against Dubois at that time was insufficient, and he was honorably acquitted.

It is said that there are several others implicated in the charges, but the police refuse to give the names of the suspected parties.

The detectives say, however, that there is more in the case comes up more complainants will appear, among whom, it is intimated, will be Deacon Richardson.

It is also said that important developments will be made in connection with the "coal hole" scheme, which was worked successfully in this city.

SAFE HERE AT LAST

Thirty-two of the Danmark's Rescued Reach This Port.

Glad Meetings With Their Relatives and Compatriots.

the Hero of the Hour.

Thirty-two of the rescued passengers of the ost steamer Danmark arrived in this city at 8 o'clock this morning.

They were the object of much curiosity. They were among the 738 persons on the ill-fated ship when, in midocean on April 5, the ship's shaft broke and tore a wide gap in her stern, and they were confronted with the reality of a shipwreck.

These 32 were among the 365 persons brought from St. Michael's to Philadelphia in brave Capt. Hamilton Murrell's ship, the Missouri, which had rescued them and the others from an un marked grave in the boundless sea.

The 305 passengers landed at Philadelphia were given a hearty supper at a hotel in the Quaker City last night, and 300 of them were sent on their way to the Western country at sent on their way to the Western country at midnight. Many destined for Philadelphia or the immediate neighborhood went away last evening. Ten of the thirty-two who came across New Jersey went direct to Brooklyn, where there is a large colony of Scandinavians and Danes.

The rest were escorted by the agents of the Thingvala line to the Hotel Danmark in Greenwich street, where they stored away beefsteaks, eggs and other substantials in a manner to warm the heart of the most sensitive cook.

Christina Kron, a bright-faced, sleek little wonan, was rerhaps the happiest of the party. She comes from Skaaue, in Sweden, and is accompanied by three children. "I am going to Dixon, Ill.," she said, in the Scandinavian tongue. "My husband, Christian, is a tailor there. Oh, I ams ogiad to be here! Ah, yes; he will be glad to see us, I know. And I will love to see him again.

"He has been in filinois a whole year. This is a present for him. It was born after he left for America."

The proud mother indicated a chubby faced, bine-eved little chap in her arms. Then she laughed, showing two rows of perfect teeth.

Olaf and Jans Olafson, Olaf Wugelund and wife, Edwin Wilson, Helge Svensen and Axel Johansan will be farmers near Worcester, Mass.

Johanna Olsen, a buxon, rosy girl, was taken away to a Long Island farm by her sister.

Wilhelmina Gustavsen, a molasses-candy-haired young woman, sat on her carpet-bag awaiting a sister who lives in Tarrytown, and Adolph Alvick was going to Boston.

All this an Evenno Wondon reporter learned with the aid of Edward Stundley, who had been to America before, could speak English fluently and bore the air of a man of the world. He is a yachtsman and goes to Boston.

Probably the only sersons at the Hotel Danmark this morning who were not happy were Hulda Svensen and Morris Stove.

Hulda seemed inclined to weep. She went on to Wikesbarre Her szure eyes anxiously scanned every face at the depot in Jersey City and at the Hotel Danmark. But they were not lighted by the face of Jans.

LOVED KATIE BUT HATED WORK.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) NEWARK, N. J., April 23.—A young man, evidently about twenty-one years of age, walked down to Ross & Anderson's ice clock, at the foot of Centro street, late last night, and samutered around for awhile, watching the drivers stabling their horses. Presently he was seen to take a note from his pocket, tear it into pieces and scatter it to the winds.

He was apparently cool and collected, and did not particularly attract the attention of the men, until suddenly divesting himself of his hat and coat, he plunged into the river.

A boat was procured and every effort was made to rescue the young man, but to no purpose. He never rose to the surface, and was drowned.

The fragments of paper scattered on the ground were collected by an officer, and when arranged together spelled out the following:

DEAR MOTHER: I am going to drown myself. I don't like work. Tel Kate Hess I love her; and good by dear aate. I would like to see you before I die.

Upon calling upon Mr. William Steinway, the responsible head of the house of Steinway & Sons, it was learned that not only was no contribution demanded from the men at their establishment, but the Centennial expenses for music, banners, fine hats, gloves, caner, &c., for all their men are to be paid by the Steinways, in addition to the heavy contributions aircady made by the firm to various committees and funds. Mr. Steinway is pleased to say that the United Plano Trades as a body, 3, 200 strong, with best bards and magnificent floats, will be one of the brightest features of the parade, and does not believe that a single plano manufacturer has exacted payment for anything used in the parade. ose their day's wages and subscribe $1.25 each Reasons Which Led a Young Man to Com-

"THE EVENING WORLD'S" BASEBALL

"The Evening World" will, the working of the telegraph wires permitting, in-augurate the opening of the League baseball season to-morrow by reproducing the Boston-New York play by play, on its bulletin-board in front of the office. Baseball cranks unable to go to the grounds are invited to avail themselves of this privilege of witnessing the game.

MAYOR'S ORDER NO. 2

More Tearing Down of Telegraph Poles and Wires.

To-Day Completes the Work of Destruction in the Upper Part of Town.

The few last poles and straggling wires included in Mayor Grant's order of last week were levelled to the ground this morning, and so the first chapter in the crusade against the electric light, telegraph and telephone companies ended. The work was pushed vigorously this morning and both contractors worked on Broadway between Twenty-third and Thirty-third streets. Contractor Hess toppled over ten poles between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-eighth streets, and Busbey did the rest. About 9, 30 o'clock the last pole dropped to the ground, and the job was practically ended. There are still two poles standing. One is the huge 100-foot stick at the corner of Forty-second street and Sixth avenue, and the other is a few yards away on the latter thoroughfare. Both gangs have been put to work on these, and they will probably be dropped at noon. work on these, and they will probably be dropped at noon.

By this week's good work, Sixth avenue, from Twenty-third street to Fifty-eighth street; Broadway, from Pourteenth street to Forty-fifth street; Twenty-third street, from Broadway to Sixth avenue; Forty-second street, from Madison to Sixth avenue; Twenty-fifth street, from Broadway to Sixth avenue and Fifty-eighth street from Fourth to Sixth avenues have been completely cleared of all poles and wires excepting those belonging to the Police and Fire departments.

When the work was finished Comn Gibbens immediately repaired to the office.

When His Honor arrived, shortly before 11 o'clock, the young Commissioner immediately corraled him. A short and earnest conversation ensued and then the Commissioner arose with smiling face. This was the result of the con-

Mary Ball, the mother of Gen. Washington, Hen. D. Londer Smith, Communissioner of Public Works.

Department Respectfully, Hugh J. Grant Mayor and President of the Board of Electrical Control.

This settles the question as to whether the wires will go underground or not, for it is plain to be seen that Mavor Grant means business from the word go and will not let up until the city is completely cleared of the poles and wires along the subways.

The new route of destruction as laid out in the order will create havoe in the telegraph companies, and especially the Western Union.

They have important offices along this route, and there is no doubt but that the Subway Commissioners will take great pleasure in snipping their cables.

It will be noticed also that the electric light wires and poles are not mentioned in the order. This is because the subways are not yet prepared for their recoption and, unfortunately, they will be allowed to remain standing.

Contractors Hess and Busby have not turped in their reports yet, but they estimate that altogether about two hundred and fifty-five poles of all sizes and descriptions and nearly four hundred and fifty thousand feet of wire have been removed by the ompanies. They have removed about 200,000 feet of wire and in the neighborhood of a hundred poles.

Two more Western Union cables were cut last night just as the men were finishing for the day. One was at 821 Sixth avenue and the other at 500 Sixth avenue.

One was at 821 Sixth avenue and the other at 1910 Sixth avenue.

When this last order is carried out then the work of destruction will probably be carried into the downtown business precincts. There are subways prepared in almost every business street south of Chambers street, and should the Mayor order the wires and poles cut in the vicinity of Wall street, there is no knowing what will happen.

The companies refuse to place their wires in the trenches on the ground that insulation is impossible because of the steam-heating pipes.

This, the Subway Commissioners say, is nonsense, for the Metropolitan Telephone Company has miles of underground wires in operation today.

The componies have all had their ninety days' notice, but it is a question as to whether the Mayor would order the financial wires of the city cut, in case they refuse to put them undersormed. city cut, in case they refuse to put them underground.

It will be a pretty kettle of fish, no matter which way things go, and further orders are auxiously awaited and feared.

Supt, Humstone, of the Western Union Telagraph Company, was asked by an Evension Wentb reporter for an estimate of the damage to his Company by the enforcement of Mayor Grant's order. In reply he said:

It is impossible to estimate the loss, but is will not be very much. We have not yet received the order, but, if I am correctly informed, it affects us only as to seven small offices between Park place and Canal street. These offices are located in railway ticket offices along Broadway.
